The Task Force will play a key role in evaluating COG's current Environmental Justice and Public Participation efforts and provide guidance on how to achieve the desired results. The Task Force will also help define the target population within Fresno County, identify the needs of the target population and develop appropriate performance measures for gauging the regional benefit and burdens of transportation system investments on the target population.

An Environmental Justice Report will be prepared, which will include the Environmental Justice Task Force efforts and recommendations, as well as the analysis used to evaluate the Regional Transportation Plan to ensure that the programs, policies, and activities outlined in the plan serve all segments of the region without generating disproportionately high adverse impacts upon target populations.

REGIONAL COORDINATION OF TRANSPORTATION, LAND USE AND HOUSING

WE 410 – San Joaquin Valley Regional Blueprint Planning Process

Objective: The San Joaquin Valley Regional Blueprint Planning Process is a multi-year planning effort envisioned to support long range regional planning through comprehensive development of regional consensus. The goal of the San Joaquin Valley Blueprint Planning Process is to develop a preferred future growth vision for the region through the use of scenario planning.

Accomplishments:

During the first four years, Fresno COG worked with the other 7 SJV COGs to coordinate our county efforts into a Valleywide Vision. We have conducted the community outreach and modeling activities that have allowed us to:

- Continue to coordinate Valleywide Blueprint Process.

Manage the consultant in preparing a summary report of the first three years of San Joaquin Valley Blueprint planning and develop a toolkit that will assist local planners integrate Blueprint planning into their local general plans. The first major deliverable was the summary report, which will also include a transitional “next steps” piece. The final product, the toolkit, is due October 2010.

Several studies are underway or forthcoming. A consultant has been hired to report on the financial-institutional barriers to higher density development and to recommend strategies to overcome these barriers. In addition, an RFP is expected to be released in mid 2010 to study the two additional aspects of higher density development. The first part will examine the cost/benefit to the public of sprawl vs. more compact (higher density) development. As part of the deliverables for the first part, the consultant will develop a tool that local planners can use to assess the cost of different types of developments. The second part of the study will examine the marketability of different types of development. The outcome should help inform the development community about what is marketable in the current climate of higher density development planning.

[STECK/TWEBSTER]

WE 411 – Farmland Conservation Model Program

Objective: Develop a plan, strategy, and program to conserve prime agricultural lands in the Central Valley. The Program will build upon initial activities to identify farmlands of strategic importance, and to develop a program to protect farmlands that is consistent with long term planning goals that maintain agriculture as a key economic and cultural force in the region. The program is first intended for the benefit of Fresno County and subsequently, the other counties making up the San Joaquin Valley.

Farmland Conservation Model Program Steering Committee members first met in June of 2007. Comprised of key stakeholders in Fresno County, steering committee members include Fresno County, the City of Fresno, the City of Clovis, the Fresno County Farm Bureau, and others. The purpose of the Farmland Conservation Model Program Steering Committee is to oversee the daily activities for implementing the Farmland Conservation Model Program. Also involved in the development of the plan is an advisory board comprised of stakeholders from governmental, the agricultural industry, the environmental and development community, amongst others that are involved in agriculture matters on regular basis that advised the Steering Committee on issues of importance to agriculture in Fresno County.

The deliverables for the Farmland Conservation Model Program include:

- Devise an approach to identifying “strategic” farmland
- Public Input
- Document factors affecting the conversion of farmlands
- Create a toolbox for decision makers to implement farmland conservation in Fresno County
- Provide a series of recommendations based upon the finding of this process
- Prepare a final report.

Accomplishments: While the Draft Farmland Conservation Model Program Report for Fresno County was released for public review on January 16, 2009, the public comment period was prolonged indefinitely in order to engage in discussions with stakeholders. Key stakeholders within the agricultural community in Fresno County expressed their dissatisfaction with the recommendations outlined in the draft report. A couple of meetings were held with groups representing the agricultural community and the decision was made to utilize the services of Dr. Gary Manross, a consultant to Fresno COG. Dr. Manross has been meeting with key stakeholders individually in to find a point of agreement between stakeholders. The information gathered in this process will in part serve as the basis for the recommendations outlined in the final Farmland Conservation Model Program for Fresno County to be released in the near future

As of the end of the Second Quarter, Dr. Gary Manross has met with close to thirty leading agricultural stakeholders. There are many more that he has to talk with and it is unknown at the current time when this process will be completed by. The slowdown of the economy has reprioritized the urgency of completing the Farmland Conservation Model Program. Since growth has abated considerably in the past couple of years, there is not the urgency to release a program. The focus for the project has since shifted to making sure that a Farmland Conservation Model Program can be developed that will work.

WE 412 – Mid Valley Multi-Modal Partnership

Objective: A regional collaboration of the 4 counties of Fresno, Madera, Tulare and Kings (FMTK) and their 30 incorporated cities, in Mid-San Joaquin Valley, is emerging and coming together with the goal of evaluating and assessing the feasibility of a bold concept for a high-capacity, mass transit-based, multi-modal corridor system. This system is proposed as part of the Regional Blueprint process to efficiently link these cities and counties together into an effective regional metropolitan area that will balance the economy, the environment and equity for the 7.7 million residents projected to live and work in the 4 county region in the next 100 years. This project will deliver a study extending previous work on the four-county Metro Rural Loop multi-modal system to work with all jurisdictions to define specific regional land use policies, recommendations for jurisdictional General Plan updates and zoning district designations, and proposed inter-jurisdictional cooperation policies and protocols that are required to protect and preserve potential four-county (Fresno, Madera, Tulare and Kings) inter-connecting multi-modal corridors and rights-of-ways.

Accomplishments: The Council of Fresno County Governments, the City of Fresno and the County of Fresno, have drafted a modest scope change to the Phase II FMTK, Multi-Modal System Partnership Grant from Caltrans. The changes are a result of the direct outcomes of the Phase I study itself as well as ongoing public outreach efforts. While in its core function to evaluate interregional corridors it remains unchanged, further development of supportive data and strategies are required. New scope is expected May 2010 for submission to Caltrans.

There will be no change to the grant award amount and all work will still be accomplished within the give grant award budget. [TWEBSTER]
